Maine Election—The America—O'Connor, etc.

New York, September 11.—A special from Augusta says the official majority of Governor Perham when the vote of the counted next week will not be short of 16,000, and will show that the Republicans have carried every county in the State by majorities ranging from 1,500 to 1,800 and that the majority on Congressmen in the State will reach 17,000. Less than half a dozen towns and cities show any falling off of Democratic gains from any cause. The latest returns show that the total vote will probably not come up to the estimates before the election but it is likely to fall short 25,000.

There was much excitement in Wall street yesterday in regard to Pacific Mail stock. The report of the burning of the steamer America gradually becoming regarded as a canard as the day advanced, and no confirmation of the report being received, the Pacific Mail stock gradually grew stronger, nearly 20,000 shares changing hands. The stock closed at 71 3/4, and the indications are that the price will continue to advance. Telegrams are soon received confirming the report of the disaster. It is now thought the reports were started by parties in the heat interest.

The Spanish ran Numancia is taking coal and provisions at the lower bay, preparatory to leaving for Spain.

Mr. Leopold of the Treasury Department at Washington, has arrived with eight assistants, to examine the accounts and affairs of the sub-treasury.

Melvin Sanford, who killed his father in defense of his mother, at Madison, New Jersey, two weeks ago, has been admitted to bar, in the sum of $5,000.

Last night John Bowles, a colored decker at a canal boat, becoming exasperated at a gang of boys who were throwing stones at him, procured a shot gun from the cabin of the boat and discharged it among the crowd, severely, if not fatally injuring Christopher Eaton, aged eighteen years. Bowles was arrested.

The Louisville committee to apprise O'Connor of his nomination, had an interview with that gentleman yesterday at his office on Wall street. The meeting was strictly private; we subsequently learned that the nomination was discussed and adjourned till to-day. The committee had strong hopes of O'Connor's ultimate acceptance. At the meeting to-day, after a full view of the situation and a thorough canvass of the views of the delegates, O'Connor will probably announce his final decision. A number of prominent Democrats will, it is said, urge O'Connor to accept and become their candidate.

Billy Forrester, the alleged Nathan murderer, was kept in close confinement yesterday, no one being allowed to see him except members of the detective force. To-day he will be taken before Judge Dowling and probably remanded to police headquarters without any examination until sufficient evidence has been collected for his trial. Several members of the Nathan family called on Superintendent Kelso yesterday and consulted him in respect to summing of witnesses.

New York, September 10.—The result of the Maine election seems to please the journals of all parties in New York. The jourexpress delight to see that an unmistakably fatal breach has not been made in the customary majority. The Liberal press point out with great satisfaction that they have made a gain in Maine of twenty per cent. over the corresponding majority in the last Presidential campaign, and say if the States do as well as the Grant stronghold in New England, Mr. Greeley will be triumphantly elected. In 1868 the office holders were attached to the Johnson Administration, which fact renders it more significant that the majority for Grant, now that the World is content with the result in Maine, and shows that in three leading towns the Liberals gain over one thousand votes. The Tribune and Sun assert that Greeley's election is indicated by the verdict in Maine. The Express to-night says the late election in Maine scarcely raises a ripple in the placid tide of affairs at the Democratic headquarters. If the result in that State had shown even more largely the strength of the Administrationists it would not have found the Democrats unprepared. The fallacy of the optimistic hopes of making a respectable showing there is easily recognized by the shrewd pilots of the Democratic campaign, and none of the sinews of war were placed in any such a hopeless location. From the tone of the different politicians around the Grant headquarters, it would seem that they expected their lavish expenditure of money, and perfect organization in Maine, ought to have brought at least twenty thousand majority.

Among the callers at the Grant headquarters yesterday and to-day were some members of the Bourbon straight, who did not wish to register their names. At Liberal headquarters there is abundant confidence of Greeley's victory in the October elections, for in those States the defection has strength both in prominent men and public journals, which is certainly not the case in Maine and Vermont. The Grant men are trying desperately to believe the contest of Greeley is in their favor, but in truth their alarm is as vivid as ever since their majority has fallen off eighty per cent. in North Carolina, twenty per cent. in Maine and five per cent. in Vermont. If this tendency settles the conflict it will be Farmer Grant next year and President Greeley.

Death of Samuel J. Brown.

[From the Cin. Enquirer of this morning.]

Yesterday afternoon the Grand Jury of Hamilton county, through its foreman, reported that it had found a true bill of indictment against Samuel J. Brown, for the murder of Frank Schick, the lad whom he shot on his premises on the 7th of July last.

Before the indictment had been read, however, the person whom it accused had gone to that Higher Court where there are no juries, petit or grand, no legal intricacies, no motions in error or arrests of judgment, but where one Judge, the Ruler of the universe, decides upon the intents as well as the actions of men with an unerring judgment.

At twelve o'clock the indictment was brought in with all the formalities of our common law. Three hours before that the final judgment had been entered by the higher court, and Samuel J. Brown was a corpse.

The deceased was one of our oldest pioneers. He was eighty-five years old, and seventy-five of those years had been spent in Cincinnati. He came to this city to find it a straggling hamlet, covering a part of the hillside where old Fort Washington stood. When he died it was a city of over a quarter of a million inhabitants, extending over an area of thirty square miles. He was a poor boy, dependent on his own resources for a living. He died a rich old man, with a crime indelibly fastened to his name.

Mr. Brown's death occurred at Valley Junction, just west of the city, where he had been since the painful occurrence of last July, when he found it necessary to leave his home in the city to escape the indignation of the populace among whom he had been residing.

INDIANA ITEMS.

The hollow trunk of a sycamore serves the primitive inhabitants of Geneva, Adams county, for a calabash.

Professor Rush Emory, of the State Normal School, who died at his residence in Terre Haute last Friday, was thirty-five years old, a native of Ohio, and a graduate of the University of Ohio and the University of Göttingen.

Drys Gapen, of Lafayette, was kicked in the pit of the stomach by a colt Friday, and lay insensible for several hours, but still lives. Few persons have been landed as high and Drys Gapen survived. He goes gapin' around colts' heels no more.

The daughter of Jacob Wentz, of Elkhart county, has just discovered what has given her so much cheek for the past seven years. It was the piece of glass which she had secreted there for that length of time, and which the doctors have just discovered and removed.

Carey Miller's Recklessness.

Part of this morning session in the Criminal Court was occupied in trying Carey Miller for his reckless revolver practice on the 31st of July, by which Miss Kate Coffin was severely, if not permanently, injured. The complainant, besides W. O. Eagle and Ben. H. Enos, was examined for the prosecution, while the principal evidence for the defense was by a younger brother of Carey's, who was present at the time of the shooting. The defendant does not deny causing the injury to Miss Coffin, but claims that it was the result of accident; and we believe it was brought before the Grand Jury not from any suspicion that the act was malicious, but merely to punish Miller for his reckless carelessness. The trial was before Judge Elliott, and resulted in a postponement of the decision until to-morrow morning.

Getting Ready for the Reception.

A meeting of citizens in conjunction with the Board of Trade was held in the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon, to take some action regarding the proposed reception of the Rock Island and Davenport excursionists, who are expected to arrive in this city to-morrow morning, on their return from Cincinnati.

At a meeting of the Board, held yesterday, a committee was appointed to consider the proposed reception, and this afternoon Dr. Elliott, Chairman of this committee, reported verbally in favor of an informal welcome, and that the guests be shown throughout the city; the sight-seeing to end with a display of the water works and Fire Department. Pending the adoption of their report, a desultory discussion was had upon the question, the majority considering that under the circumstances it would not be best to arrange for a banquet. The recommendation of the committee was finally agreed to, and at the hour of going to press the preliminaries were being arranged.

The Truth About Maine—Luck in Lottery—Slander Suit, etc.

[Special to the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

New York, September 10.—The Sun says: "In September, 1868, the Grant party carried Maine by 20,403 majority. They did this in the face of President Johnson, who threw the immense influence and patronage of the Administration against them. This year Grant threw the power of the Administration, worth at least 5,000 votes, in favor of the Radicals. Government money flowed like water, and the most unscrupulous means were used to insure a triumph; yet the Grantites have carried the State by 15,000 only, losing 5,000 since 1868, when everything was against them. In view of this fact, Moblier Claims' inflated dispatch to the President appears to be exquisite sarcasm."

A will contest began in the Surrogate Court to-day shows that Noah F. Pike, who recently died worth a million, came to this city forty years ago with only fifty cents. He was a member of a Broadway lottery office, and his little daughter picking up a lottery ticket, chewed it. The dealer then required him to buy the ticket, as the child's chewing had made it unsaleable. Pike reluctantly bought it, paying $1.50. The ticket drew $4,500 and was the foundation of his fortune, which he accumulated in real estate transactions.

An astonishing slander suit is on trial in Williamsport, Pennsylvania. Rev. William A. Kerr, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, has sued August Purcell, Ira C. Gibson and George Monsel, members of his congregation, for slander, to defend himself against the charge of visiting a house of bad repute. Rev. William A. Kerr lives in the house of Augustus Purcell, one of his accusers. The wife of Mr. Purcell found in Kerr's room a letter addressed to "Wm. B. Caldwell," an assumed name of the pastor. With a woman's curiosity she opened it and found that it was from a Mrs. Slifer, who keeps a notorious house in Washington street. She showed the letter to her husband. Mr. Purcell is a good man. He prayed for the reformation of the Reverend sinner, and showed the letter to Ira C. Gibson and Geo. Monsel, other good men of Kerr's congregation.

The three went to the Chief of Police, Coder. Coder went to Mrs. Slifer's, and found a letter signed "Wm. B. Caldwell" in the possession of Ida Bush, a young girl of very pleasing exterior. Experts said that this handwriting was Kerr's. Kerr was before a session of the church and of the Presbytery, and accused of improper conduct. He denied everything in toto, and instituted the pending suit.

OHIO.

New Paper at Columbus—Coroner's Inquest—Suicide, etc.

COLUMBUS, September 11.—The Columbus Daily Sentinel, the new Greeley organ, made its first appearance to-day. It is a handsome typographically, and is pronounced enough in its editorials to fill the ideas of all as an organ. J. O. Howard, formerly of the State Journal, and late of the Washington Capital has editorial charge, while Benjamin Gaines does up the city matters. Its dispatches are furnished by the American Press Association.

MANFIELD, September 11.—The Coroner's inquest on the death of the recent railroad accident near Independence, returned a verdict charging the responsibility on E. M. Livingston, Supervisor of Trains, however it is disposed to blame Mr. Patrick, the conductor of the north bound express. The following additional dead have been named: Edward Emerson, Independence, and O. S. Scott and Miss Phillips, of Fredericktown. Miss Phillips has since died, making a total so far dead ten. Mr. Winfield Kanagy is of Independence instead of Wakefield. Mr. Ramsey is one of the wounded and is lying very low; also Wm. Lanehart, of Independence, is not expected to recover. The additional wounded are J. P. Fiddler, Fulton county; O. Sampson Zent, Fredericktown, badly hurt and reported dead; Wm. Phillips and Ed. Pace, of Fredericktown.

DAYTON, September 11.—A youth named Hartrader committed suicide by hanging in a stable near Red Lion, Warren county, on account of a young lady refusing to return his love. He left a letter of forgiveness for his character.

CINCINNATI, September 11.—Policemen state that the persons engaged in breaking Watson's barbershop windows and chasing negroes last night were not in the procession. They were notorious roughs, who make a practice of taking advantage of nearly all public demonstrations to gratify their desires for a row. Two of them were arrested this morning. Altogether three negroes and one policeman were knocked down.

The proprietors of the Weed and Domestic Sewing Machine Companies, both exhibiting their wares at the Exposition, got into a row in which the Domestic man struck the Weed man heavily on the face, for which he was fined in the police court twenty-five dollars, and is denied further entrance to the Exposition. His display of goods will, however, be allowed.

WASHINGTON.

Riotous Radicals—Colonization, etc.

[Special to the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

WASHINGTON, September 10.—There has been great exultation in Republican quarters here to-day over the dispatches from Maine, announcing that the party has come within less than 2,000 votes of its majority in 1868 preceding that President election, and has increased its majority of last year 5,000. These figures it is claimed, show such a small Liberal, Republican element, and indicate such a disaffection among the Democrats for the Liberal ticket, as to induce the Administration to shout lustily that Grant will be re-elected. There has not been such a jubilation among the Republicans here since the campaign opened.

[Special to the Cincinnati Commercial.]

The work of taking voters into Pennsylvania, on behalf of the Radical party, for the October election in that State, has already begun. The first installment left this city last night, under the escort of two white men, and consisted of twenty-five blacks. These men on being questioned, said they were going to Philadelphia to work on the railroad, that they did not know for whom they were going to work, nor the particular railroad upon which they were to be employed, but that their expenses had been paid, and that they would return about the middle of October. They also gave the information that they intended to vote for Grant at the October election, they undoubtedly believing that they could vote in that State for President at that time.

A New Railway.

Articles of incorporation of the Indianapolis, Delphi and Chicago Railway Company, capital stock $2,500,000, were filed to-day with the Secretary of State. This road is intended to run from this city through the counties of Hamilton, Brown, Clinton, Carroll, White, Jasper, and probably Newton and Lake, a distance of one hundred and forty miles, and the following are named as Directors of the company: Robert S. Dwiggins, Joshua Healey, Wm. Haywood, James C. Reynolds, Joshua Rothrock, Abner H. Bowen, Charles Arnold, Milton B. Graham, James H. Stewart, Vin. Holt, H. G. Morrison, A. Holcraft and L. McCoy.

Endeavor to Kidnap.

Yesterday forenoon a young girl, whose father works in Root's foundry, was sent with a package to the residence of Mrs. Bruner, on First street. Somewhere in that neighborhood she was met by a young looking colored woman, who, after ascertaining her destination, offered to show the way and so led the little girl through several alleys and by-streets until they had reached a point near the Seventh street bridge. This wandering around occupied an hour or more, and as the two were followed at some distance by some evil looking men, it is believed by the police that the woman was endeavoring to kidnap the girl for shameful purposes.

Some boys in that section, seeing the evident reluctance with which the younger woman, pained the older one, interfered, and for this were driven off with stones by the colored tigress. Jacob

The Browne demonstration last night is not regarded by the managers as the magnificent success they had anticipated. It was a very fair local celebration, but not what should have been after such stupendous exertions as were made.

The organ has suddenly discovered that "as goes Maine so goes the Union." This is new doctrine and we don't believe it. We never heard that Maine went for Pierce in '52 or for Buchanan in '56. But we are content to accept the Journal's doctrine. The same change all over the country that is indicated by the Maine election will make Horace Greeley the next President.

We are glad to see that the new car works are being pushed up rapidly. The buildings in course of erection are extensive and well arranged. These works, it is understood, will employ five hundred men at the start, and will probably increase the number to seven or eight hundred within the year. We hope the establishment may prove a success in every particular. A few such concerns will add largely to the wealth and population of the city.

It will be a year in the month of October since the city of Chicago was nearly destroyed by fire. If Chicago was a wonder before that, words fail to express what is now. The change in the appearance of the city within four months is absolutely marvellous. The business portion is being rebuilt with amazing rapidity and the character of the buildings is very superior. Some of them are not surpassed by anything on the continent and where before the fire there were ten inferior structures and one handsome one, there are now ten handsome ones to an inferior one. As no one could comprehend the magnitude of the fire without seeing the ruins, so no one can comprehend the magnitude of the change without seeing it. It is worth going a great many miles to see the new Chicago.

The Republican majority in Maine has not been reduced so much as we expected it would be, but the decrease is large enough to show that the Liberal heaven is at work. We have never had any hope of doing much in those New England States which have been good for majorities of thousands for years. The average New Englander changes very slowly. He is eminently a sticking creature. Maine gave a majority in 1868, at the gubernatorial election, of 20,403. This year she gives 15,000, according to Speaker Blaine. Last year the majority was over 10,000, but it must be remembered that at this election fully thirty thousand more votes were polled. The result can, in our judgment, have little effect. The fight is to be fought out in October in the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana.

The Globe, a new Republican newspaper recently established in St. Louis, is meeting with a success which is quite a marvel in journalism. It is one of those phenomena which defy precedent and set established rule at naught. The Globe is in many respects an admirable paper, but that affords no reason why it should at once leap into full manhood, and pass beyond an old established concern like the Democrat. The reason probably is that it appeals to Republicans for support with clean hands while the Democrat has to explain away what the Administrationists would doubtless call the stigma of starting the bolt which bids fair to make Horace Greeley President, and then repudiating its own work. Party men naturally feel some little hesitation in trusting such a paper.

Dislocating History. It is no uncommon thing for authors of works of fiction or imagination to dislocate history so as to bring widely separated persons or events together for effect, and where the dislocation is not too great or obvious the effect is a full pardon for the transgression. Thus the greatest of all human intellects, Shakespeare, was the most audacious of all contemners of historical accuracy or consistency, and though every one readily marks his anachronisms, no one cares a straw for them. They in no way affect his purpose or the effect he aims to make. He is painting human nature, the same in all ages and lands, and it matters little what frame of historical fact he may put the picture in. "Lear" is a grand delineation, of parental love turned to madness by filial ingratitude, and it is none the less grand that the characters speak as if they lived in the days of Elizabeth instead of the barbarous days before history had a beginning. What could be more absurd than the remark of the "clown," after his comical prediction: "This prophecy Merlin will make, for I live before his time," yet what effect does it produce on the play? None at all. It is not noticeable. Sir

Walter Scott, too, whose historical novels are better than most histories, is a grievous sinner against historical accuracy, but no one notices the error. The sin is condoned for its good work. To show what sort of wrenchings of fact the reader utterly overlooks in the pleasure the story gives him, we will notice one or two. "Kenilworth," is one of the most striking, as it has always been one of the most popular, of the "Waverley Novels," and one of the most attractive passages in it is that where Sir Walter Raleigh is made to repeat to Queen Elizabeth the exquisite bit of flattery put into the mouth of "Oberon," King of the Fairies, about Cupid aiming his "love shaft" at "a fair vestal throned by the West" and the "quenching of his fiery shaft in the chaste beams of the watery moon," and the "imperial votress passing in maiden meditation fancy free." Again, Leicester is made, as he comes from the council chamber, to address Shakespeare in a pleasant condescending way. And all this makes a happy effect. Yet a moment's attention to the history of the times will discover the egregious blunder, or rather dislocation of fact, necessary to this effect.

The date of the leading events in the novel is fixed by the note of "Leicester"—sent after "Varney" to stop the villainy that he had resolved to practice on his unfortunate wife, 1575. Shakespeare was born in 1564, so that the story makes him a prominent literary figure, and has his plays quoted by the highest in the land when he was but eleven years old. But worse even than this is the passage in which "Wayland Smith" quotes "Caliban's" song, "Ca Ca Caliban got a new master, get a new man," and it is said that it is "from a comedy then new." It is from the "Tempest," and that, if not the very last, was among the last of Shakespeare's works. It was produced between 1610 and 1614. More than one critic, probably with more force of fancy than fact, has suggested that the great dramatist meant to typify himself in what he puts into the mouth of "Prospero":

"But this rough magic I here conjure, and I have required 'Some heavenly music (which even now I do) To work mine end upon their senses, that 'This airy charm is for, I'll break my staff, 'Bury it in the earth, 'And deeper than did ever plummet sound, 'I'll drown my book."

They have imagined that this was meant to be the Poet's declaration of his purpose to write no more. At all events he wrote but little more, if any. But this production of probably the year 1613 or 1614 is quoted in 1575 as "from a comedy then new." The "great Northern Wizard" certainly puts a heavy strain on the reader's faith, but not heavier than it will bear, for it has borne it these many years. No one ever complains of the violent anachronism and doubtless most readers never think of it, any more than they think of the terrific dislocation of history which puts "Julio Romano," an actual pupil of Raphael, into the "Winter's Tale," among such classic old names as "Clemences," "Leontes," "Mamilius" and the like, or has cannon firing in "Macbeth" and "King John." Scott has certainly stretched the privilege of authorship to the utmost in thus making a successful dramatist of Shakespeare at eleven years of age, years before he had even thought of stealing deer from Sir Thomas Lucy's park, or going to London to be a scene shifter.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Two thousand foreigners were naturalized in Vermont within a few days before the election.

Henry H. Houston, the most prominent Bourbon in the First District of Kentucky, has come out squarely for Grant since the Louisville Convention.

J. Brisben Walker was the only Grant man who was a candidate for office at the late West Virginia election, and he was defeated for Congress by three thousand majority.

Since Mrs. Swishelm declared her preference for Greeley she has fallen immeasurably in the estimation of the Grant organs. The Chicago Inter-Ocean says it is fortunate that Mrs. Swishelm's influence is small, as she cares neither for truth nor principle, and is ready to abandon either to gratify a stubborn dislike.

The Hon. Samuel J. Randall, Chairman of the Pennsylvania Democratic State Committee, and the best posted man in the State, has issued a circular in which he gives a most cheering account of Pennsylvania. He concludes in these words: "Victory in October is certain. I make this declaration with full appreciation of its import, and the weight which should attach to such a statement, when emanating from one in whom high confidence has been placed. I state it from conviction, and it is made after careful review and full knowledge of the condition and tendency of the public mind throughout the State."

Indiana holds her election in October as well as Pennsylvania, and her election is a most important one. If Pennsylvania should go Liberal and Indiana Radical, the result of the Presidential contest might be doubtful in spite of the old saying about the Union going with Pennsylvania. The Democrats and Liberals, however, have nothing to discourage them from that quarter. Our Indiana friends look forward to the October election with confidence. Hendricks is immeasurably the superior of his opponent, and he has an infinite advantage in the cause he so ably represents. Pennsylvania and Indiana will pronounce against Grantism in October, and a majority of the States will cast their electoral votes against Grant and Grantism in November. [Chicago Tribune.]

Embracing Judaism.

A New York letter in the St. Louis Republican says: "You know lots of girls have embraced the Jewish religion and Jewish husbands lately. One of them, a Catholic girl, espoused the Hebrew faith and a German gentleman the same day. Now, her parents took a coffin with her name and age thereon to the church and had high mass said over it; toted it over to Calvary, and buried their daughter to all intents and purposes."

Summer Rain.

BY W. H. C. ROSE.

What sound so sweet, After a day of dry heat, And sunstrokes in the dusky street, As the pleasant voice of the singing rain, Dashing against the window pane?

The greenly rose, And vases flowers they unclosed, While God His bosom bestowed; And the sick man dreams of health again, Cured by the dance of the dropping rain.

The bubbles break, While showers descend on the breezy lake, And the water nymphs from slumber wake; Homeward driving the slumbering rain, The farmer dreads the cooling rain.

The plague fiend sends, In his dread career to hear the drops; Then, farmer, why mourn o'er your crops? True faith sublime ne'er leaved in vain, On the power that sends us the healing rain.

It bringeth cure, To the blistered feet of the starving poor, And their hearts are strengthened to endure; While we, in love with life again, His hot brow bares to the welcome rain.

Of murmuring shells, And the silvery chime of fairy bells, Were never born such music to the ear, To cheer the visionary brain, Of listening hard as the summer rain.

Earth looks more fair, When from the sun's hot glare Fall from the clouds of upper air, And her breast is cleansed of many a stain By the gentle bath of summer rain.

It caught its chime— Not in this fading light of time, But above—above in a holier clime; And I ever hear an angel's strain, Blend with the dash of a summer rain.

Years ago it was the custom for all vessels passing Mount Vernon, on the Potomac, to toll their bells in honor of the sacred memories of the place. During the war it was manifestly impossible, and since the inauguration of peace again the custom has not been revived. The Washington Chronicle calls loudly for the renewal of the observance.

It is a somewhat notable fact that, while the liquor trade is largely increased under the excitement of a political campaign, the book trade suffers to a corresponding degree. This is a feature in that trade which repeats every four years. During this season, therefore, the book trade will be dull, but after the Presidential election it will start afresh.

The horses attached to a steam fire engine in Albany, New York, becoming frightened while being driven to a fire, recently ran with the machine to the dock, and leaped in where the water was twelve feet deep. The driver swam ashore, but the horses, valued at $1,200, were held down by the weight of the engine and drowned.

It has been noticed as a fact that during the recent terrible thunder storms the lightning has never done any damage in cities of any considerable size. Undoubtedly the iron which enters so largely in the construction of cities, in buildings, railroads, telegraph lines, etc., dissipates the electric fluid so rapidly and completely as it approaches the earth that it is rendered harmless.

JUDGE DENT DECORATED.

A Rastling Letter from Henry Reed. The following letter, written by Henry Reed, Esq., editor of the Capital, is addressed to one of the editors of the Cincinnati Enquirer:

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 7, 1872.

DEAR SIR:—The public is of the opinion that a fellow whose name is Dent, and whose sister the President married—whether before or after he resigned (by the aid of a court martial) his commission in the army, I do not know—tried, a few days ago to kill me, in that view of the case, I have had the matter referred to a jury. To me the proof was striking and emphatic. He really did not damage me much; but it was not his fault. I am inclined to think that with his weapon and chance, I could have sliced his head as a cook slices a cucumber. I wear the smallest hat of all my father's sons; my head having settled into extreme solidity. Three or four years ago, my wife was run away with in a buggy—down the hill past the Bowler place, and tumbled out head foremost upon a pile of rocks. I told her when she came home that I thought she had the hardest head in America. I begin to think mine is of pretty much the same material. I suppose it is solid all through; in which case softening of the brain is out of the question. I have not suffered to speak of, and have had neither confinement nor process of recovery. My poor little wife, who was just getting over a severe attack of inflammation in the eyes, got excited and suffered a relapse; and this is the severest of my afflictions. She sits in a darkened room with feelings, I regret to say, not truly loyal to the government.

I was tried for the offense. You have probably heard that the fellow who assailed me was the subject of a judicial proceeding. That was a mistake of the newspaper reporters, who did not take in the situation. I was there nominally a prosecuting witness; actually a felon under the sentence of the President of the United States for life, and against one of his family. The fact that this was my position was palpable in every face, from that of the Judge on the bench to those of the cloud of darkies that filled the rear of the temple of public justice. Judge, prosecutor, all who had anything to do with the case, were things that I thought she had made and can unmake; and making and unmaking are done here with such freedom and facility, and so often, that they excite only a passing remark.

Washington is socially an anarchy made up of persons who either hold or hope to hold office. The prime end of the ins is to keep that of the outs is to get somebody out in order to get in themselves. The ins are, therefore, continually under the espionage of the outs, who hold over them a reign of terror, all the more severe, as both are alike destitute of manhood, and each is conscious that the other is utterly false and treacherous. Such a state of things, bad enough in any case, under the dominion of a family, venal and unscrupulous, whose field of observation, scrutiny and interference, takes in the lowest offices and the GEN. BROWNE'S RECEPTION.
In Numbers, Enthusiasm and Display, not what was Expected.
For weeks past the Grantees of this county have been making tremendous exertions for the demonstration of last night, and the Journal of yesterday says that "from every town within fifty miles excursion trains will be run to-day, and the larger crowds will send delegations to join in the procession. Every club or organization in the county will also be present." The promised excursion trains were run; delegations were here from Kokomo, Noblesville, Crawfordsville, James-town, Rushville, Franklin, Edinburg and Columbus, with other places to hear from, and yet with all these advantages the crowd, when compared with the Wilson turn-out, is many thousands smaller, and the display not half so brilliant. A general request was made by the committee for every house on Washington street to illuminate, but the Bates, Palmer, Braden & Co., Parker, part of the Capital House building, Ike Davis, City Hall and Johnston Bros. were the only ones who complied with the request in a general sense. Some half dozen buildings between the Canal and East street had a few Chinese lanterns pendant therefrom—with these exceptions Washington street presented the usual appearance so far as decoration and illumination was concerned.

In the procession carrying torches were delegations from Southport, Franklin, Crawfordsville, and Franklin, Warren, Lawrence, and Perry, who could be distinguished by their banners, while many others were assimilated with the city clubs. Viewed in this way, the demonstration was more of a State than an Indianapolis affair, and for that reason must be set down as partly a failure.

Several gentlemen, of Republican as well Democratic faith, anxious to satisfy themselves regarding the numbers actually in New, made careful estimates while the procession was passing a given point. A Republican at the Capitol House counted 1,473 whites, blacks and boys; another at the crossing of Meridian street estimated at 1,457, and three counts published in the Sentinel place the figures at 1,455, 1,430 and a trifle over 1,300. One hundred would be a fair allowance for under estimates, which would still place the procession at less than 1,600. This we believe a fair estimate, and one satisfactory to the most captious.

Some effort was made at illumination upon some of the side streets, and the Journal building, Postoffice and Pension Agent's were handsomely decorated. From the Wigwag, Journal office, Palmer House and Bates House, and three or four private blocks, a considerable display of fire-works was made, which, however, did not at all compare with the Wilson, much less with the Schurz demonstration.

The sidewalks were lined with people along the line of march, who looked upon the display with curiosity, if not satisfaction. The enthusiasm supposed to mark such demonstrations was confined almost entirely to marchers, the bystanders confining themselves to an occasional wave of the handkerchief or of the hat.

After the procession General Browne spoke to a large audience at the Wigwag, and was followed by Governor Fairchild, of Wisconsin, and General Osborne, of Chicago.

To-night the Liberals will extend a welcome to Governor Gratz Brown and General Koerner, and as the Radical demonstration last night was not interfered with in any manner by the opposition, it is hoped the Grantees will extend the same courtesy.

Signal Service Reform.
Notwithstanding the success of the signal service and the general accuracy of the predictions of Old Probabilities, attempts are being made to obtain more exact knowledge of the movements of the upper currents of air by scientific observations. During a balloon ascension made for this purpose at Rochester, New York, on Monday last week, by Mr. Schaefer, he rose to an elevation of 6,000 feet, and made during his voyage 150 observations. The Rochester Democrat, in describing it, says: "The instruments carried by Mr. Schaefer on this aerial excursion were two barometers (aneroid's), two hygrometers (Glaisher's), two thermometers (Green's), one thermometer (Tiffany's), and three compasses. The phenomena to be observed were the velocity of ascension per minute; the kind, position, elevation, depth, density and shape of clouds; different strata of air passed through, their thickness, direction, moving and velocity; action of instruments in passing over valley, river, hill or mountain, and whether magnetic intensity is diminished by elevation." The trip commenced at five o'clock p. m., and the descent was made at twenty minutes after six o'clock. It was entirely successful; and the hope seems to be cherished that, after more accurate information is gained, the weather predictions will become infallible.

Distressing Fatality.
Some three weeks since Colonel P. S. Layton, of Meridian, Miss., brought his family, consisting of his wife and five children, to the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Wm. Reber, who lives a mile east of Brandon, with his widowed daughter, Mrs. Annie E. Bourne. About a week after their arrival, and in the absence of Colonel Layton, his wife four of his children, the four children of Mrs. Bourne, two daughters of Mrs. Britt, and a negro girl, were seized with cholera. Colonel Layton's little daughter, Mabel, died on the 20th of August, Annie Bourne on the 24th, Pierre Louis Layton on the 25th, Willie Bourne on the 28th, Elula Bourne on the 30th, and Fannie Bourne on the 31st of September. Six children in a row died the same roof, in the short space of eleven days, and four of these composing the entire family of a recently widowed mother.

What it Costs to Feed a Fly.
A curious calculation has been made by an eccentric individual, well known in Paris for his peculiar antipathy to the fly. He collected 300 flies in a room measuring seventy cubic feet. On the floor he spread a pound of sugar. At the end of four days he went to investigate the result of his experiment. There remained a teaspoonful of sugar. This statistician, therefore, calculates that, sugar, being at the rate of thirteen cents a pound, a fly costs the country twenty cents from its birth to its demise—that is, if fed on loaf sugar.

THE CITY.
The Emmett Guards are making preparations for a ball on Wednesday evening, October 2.

Several ladies present at the demonstration last night had their clothing scorched and burned by the careless handling of fireworks.

The display last night was creditable, 'tis true, but leading Grant men laugh at the report of the Journal making it excel the Wilson demonstration.

RABBITO, the tobaccoist, yesterday sold a bill of goods for Parsons, Kansas, via Fort Scott, the purchaser asserting that he could buy cheaper here than in St. Louis.

J. W. JONES, of the Union Depot Dining Rooms, was married to-day to a lady in Knightstown, and hereafter will from an any companionship from his old bachelor friends.

A YOUNG lad from Georgia, penniless and friendless, applied this forenoon to the Mayor for remunerative labor, claiming that he preferred working to stealing. He was accommodated.

J. H. BALDWIN, Esq., returned on Friday from his trip to Sault Ste. Marie, and on the following day was taken ill. His friends will regret to learn that this forenoon the disease developed into typhoid fever.

The marching of the Grant Guards and the Sixth Ward Club was about the only commendable feature of the procession last night. These two organizations were out in force, and made up nearly half of the line.

The police compliment the opposition for their orderly conduct during the Browne demonstration last night. It is hoped the Radicals will be equally courteous and not attempt to interfere with Liberal movement this evening.

RANSOM RAY, a colored lad twelve years old, while marching in the procession last night, was struck by a stick and severely hurt about the head. The blow came from one of his own companions during a quarrel over the possession of a Roman candle.

The coroner's jury last night determined that the infant found at the graveyard on the day before was murdered after birth by unknown parties; also, that the death of George Ellis, the little fellow killed at King's switch, was the result of his own carelessness.

The second call of the docket in the Common Pleas Court will be made to-morrow morning, beginning at No. 1, new series, and cases will be set down for a day certain for trial. Parties and their attorneys will do well to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

The Bates House Fire.
A lighted ball from a roman candle fired from the opposite side of the street, last evening communicated flames to the Bates House cupola, and for a time threatened destruction to that block, and caused no little alarm among the boarders. The Fire Department was promptly on hands, and after some labor succeeded in subduing the fire. Loss about one thousand dollars, which was caused by the water flooding the lower floors. The damage by fire alone was very trifling.

Log Broken.
During the procession last night, and while the crowd were congregating at the Wigwam, James A. Grant, a blacksmith from Bridgeport, and his friend W. H. Cook, engaged in a playful scuffle, during which Grant was thrown with such violence as to break his leg. The injured man was taken to the Surgical Institute. Shortly afterwards Cook reported to Officer Preston that he had injured Grant, and that the two were fighting at the time, and for this reason the officer took him in custody. The truth is, both were drunk, and not capable of knowing what did happen. This forenoon Cook was fined for drunk and disorderly, the charge of assault and battery with attempt to kill being dismissed.

Grand Opening
OF THE FINEST DRY GOODS HOUSE IN THE STATE.
Certainly the city of Indianapolis has a brighter future in store than any inland city in the Union. Its prosperity, too, is of a permanent character, for the reason that the business men are solid, substantial citizens, many of whom have grown with the city's growth, while many, having heard of the great advantages to be gained by locating here, have come to share with us in the future growth and prosperity of the city. In this latter connection we will speak of the firm of Adams & Hatch, who last evening threw open to visitors the largest and most elegant dry goods house ever opened in a city of the size of ours.

Messrs. Adams & Hatch are gentlemen of large experience in this line of business, are energetic, practical business men, and are a valuable acquisition to the city. When it was announced here in business circles several months ago that the firm of Deloss Root & Co. had rented their building on East Washington street for a mammoth dry goods house, men were astonished, such an undertaking seemed impossible, but when the subject was taken into due consideration, the wisdom of the project and the choice of location was at once acknowledged to be one of merit. These gentlemen, determined that everything should be in keeping with their own advanced ideas of what this class of trade should be, spared neither time nor money to fit up in an elegant manner an establishment that should at once be appreciated by the best and most influential citizens of this city and its surroundings.

In this part of their effort they have been highly successful. The high encomiums passed last evening by those who were in attendance at the opening, upon the arrangement of the store and the manner in which the goods were displayed, must have been highly gratifying to not only the proprietors but the highly efficient corps of lady and gentlemen clerks, who have labored to make this the grandest event of the season.

The magnificent show window was last evening beautifully arranged, showing to great advantage the many beauties of real lace, worth from $5 to $25. Real lace and point applique handkerchiefs, value, $5 to $75. Irish Poplins, plaid poplins and plaid satteens. Handsome embroidered and braided French jackets. On the right as we enter the store, we saw an elegant show case filled with fancy goods, consisting of ladies' scarfs, ties, collars, handkerchiefs, etc.

The first counter is a department devoted to domestic and staples of which there is a full and complete stock. Adjoining this we find the prints, embracing not only American goods, but many beautiful patterns of French and English make.

To the ladies who were present last evening, the department of which we shall now speak, gave the greatest pleasure and satisfaction.

SHAWLS AND CLOAKS.
In shawls the array was superb. Camel hair shawls that cost the purchaser from $300 to $500, real Paisleys $25 to $300, and Ottoman shawls $3.75 to $18.

In cloaks and talmas the variety is large and a rare selection can be made that will please the taste of the most refined. In this department is a choice assortment of elegant French embroidered sacks and patterns, some in one and others in a great variety of colors.

The next department we come to is the one of dress goods. Here we see a large stock of Empress, cloth, Irish and French poplins, and satteens, and also a cashmere, merino, and a variety of black, color rich variety of silks, comored, fancy and Japanese, the latter ranging in prices from 45 cents to $1.25 per yard.

At the counter adjoining that of the dress goods are the white goods, and here is a full and choice stock of table linens, handsome counterpanes valued at $15 to $25, table sets, $20, $30, $35 and $40. The general stock of flannels is full and complete, being of white, colored, plain and plaid.

The department of ladies' furnishing goods and everything pertaining to ladies' underwear is well filled.

This firm will make a specialty of cloths, both foreign and domestic, embracing patterns in English and Scotch suitings, trecoos, beavers, etc. In overcoatings the assortment has been carefully selected. They will also keep a full line of western make of cassimeres and jeans. The proprietors having had a large experience in this branch of their trade, can guarantee satisfaction. Returning now towards the front on the west side, there is exhibited in gents' furnishing goods, everything needed by a gentleman in the make-up of his toilet.

We took a glance at the notion department and found a handsome line of real and imitation hair goods, ivory-backed brushes of all descriptions, portmonaies, memorandum books, looking glasses, etc.

The trimmings for dress goods embrace everything that is needed.
A larger, finer and more complete assortment of gloves has never been exhibited in any western establishment, than is shown in the first show case at the left as you enter the store from the west side—the old favorite Alexandre, the Armond, a new and popular glove, the Josephine Seamless, the best glove made, and the Convoisier; and we also notice in the glove line a one button glove for $1, and a two button glove for $1.50, which are warranted to give satisfaction, something never before known with a cheap make of glove.

We could have lingered much longer over the display of last evening, and have, of course omitted much in this brief notice of many of the valuable features of the opening, but it is sufficient to say in our deliberate opinion that taste, art, and experience have been shown by the firm whom we now recognize and cordially greet as one of the leading dry goods houses of Indianapolis.

Notice to Mechanics.
The Indianapolis Car Company will sell on easy terms to mechanics, one or more of the sixteen dwelling houses, built by them on lots in their addition. They will give constant employment to good mechanics in iron and wood working departments, who may purchase one or more of the houses, thereby giving them an opportunity to pay for their houses in labor instead of paying rent. LOCAL ITEMS.
Attractive.
The many beautiful styles of dress hats at the model hat establishment of Ike Davis, Corner & Co. There is a dash of elegance about the Broadway. As a full dress fabric they are the hat that gives a proper finish to a gentleman's costume. Gentlemen's hats of all grades at 22 West Washington street.

Perfumeries and toilet articles at the Corner Drug Store.
The grand rally of different political parties at the present time is owing, in a great measure, to the Arctic Soda water at 22 North Pennsylvania street. They all know they can keep cool by imbibing of the soda water, as dispensed at the Palace Drug Store. Drink soda water and keep your brain from a fevered state.
The Arctic Soda water at the Palace Drug Store is excellent. It quenches the thirst and tends to quiet the nervous system. Try a glass at 22 North Pennsylvania street.

Personal expenses is the part of the great "problem of finance," best understood by those who have the understanding of a large family to look after in hard times; to such and all others money is saved by purchasing boots and shoes at boot uppers down, 49 and 53 West Washington street.

On your way to the State House Yard this evening, stop in at the Corner Drug Store and try some of that double Arctic soda water. It will refresh you amazingly.

Try a Peak of Pico cigar from 22 North Pennsylvania street.

BUSINESS NOTICES.
The Human Roof and its Thatching.
If the man deserves well of his country who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, surely he who produces a glorious crop of hair on a comparatively barren scalp deserves the hearty thanks of the obliged party. All honor, therefore, to Professor E. T. Lyon, for unquestionably his renowned Kathairon accomplishes this object. Gentlemen whose whiskers are sky of making their appearance in force, or the fibers of whose mustaches disclose those "magnificent distances" for which Washington City was once so famous, will find this Hair Remover the most wonderful encourager of fibrous development that has ever yet been invented. Both sexes are advised to use it, as, by all odds, it is the best article for improving the growth and beauty of the hair, keeping it free from scurf and dandruff, preventing it from becoming harsh, dry and graying, giving it a rich gloss and endowing it with flexibility—that Toilet Chemistry has ever evolved from the vegetable kingdom.

Wholesale Dealers.
Beside its country circulation, which is very large, The Evening News is read on every train leaving or arriving after 3 o'clock, and at every hotel in the evening. Advertise in it.

That Sacred Oil!
The "bottle of sacred oil" recently found amid the ruins of Pompeii turns out to have been nothing but a bottle of whisky inadvertently left behind by a picnic party of Colonel Polk's friends, while that gentleman was American Ambassador at Rome. The Colonel was the man whom President Buchanan asked what were the qualifications necessary for such an office, and he promptly answered: "An unflinching thirst, and four years' supply of Kentucky rangeloot."

A son of Albert Susanka, aged six years, was run over by a runaway team at Cario, Ill., yesterday. One side of his face was badly mutilated, and one ear torn off. He will hardly recover.

A CARD.

Our Grand Opening was a complete success, and we desire to extend our thanks to friends and the public generally for the large attendance, we having shown more goods than in any three days since we commenced business. We will continue to display the elegant line shown on this occasion, together with large additions of new styles and novelties, as soon as issued by the leading houses of the country.

We again extend a cordial invitation to all to come and look.

Real Estate in San Francisco.
Samuel Williams, the veteran journalist, writes from Chicago to the San Francisco Bulletin, beginning his letter as follows:
I used to think real estate was relatively high in San Francisco. I am now convinced to the contrary. The rise in the larger cities within the past ten years has been enormous; while in the smaller and interior towns—towns ranging in population from 7,000 to 30,000—it has been on an average over one hundred per cent.

FIREMAN'S FUND
FIRE INSURANCE CO., OF
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Cash Capital (Gold) - $500,000
Cash Assets over - 900,000

It may sometimes be suggested that the "Home Office" of this company is so remote that losses will not be promptly and honorably responded to. As proof that such is not the case its Chicago losses amounted to $476,428 43, which the stockholders met by an assessment, paying dollar for dollar, leaving the former assets of the company untouched, from which it will be observed that it is a little nearer home than many others. It is such a company as the "Fireman's Fund" that deserves the patronage of the insuring public.
